

A strange scene is being enacted in Washington. It is as melodramatic as anything ever turned out by Hollywood, but it plays to a greater audience than any film for it is the Atom Bomb, purporting to hold the secret of the national safety of the United States.

David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, is before a congressional investigating committee on charges that: (1) The Atomic Secret is being poorly kept; (2) disloyal and even criminal persons have been put on the AEC payroll; and (3) a bottle of the precious Uranium-235 disappeared.

Later developments disclose: (1) That the commission had to move fast in order to develop the Atomic Program, and some errors in judgment may have been due to this haste; (2) an AEC guard was accused of being a criminal turns out to have been arrested once upon a time but wasn't convicted; and (3) the missing bottle of Uranium-235 didn't go to Russia.

It was thrown out with some waste material, and most of it was recovered.

Nevertheless, this is a story of suspense — for on the discovery of every new weapon has hung the fate of nations.

Consequently, the discovery of the Atom Bomb could make America conqueror of the world, if she chose to be; or, which is what we really desire, it could keep us safely defended at home, and help establish peace throughout the world.

But in so tense a drama you are struck by a curious thought: This whole story presupposes that we and we alone have the secret of the Atom Bomb. And yet common-sense Americans must allow in their own minds of the possibility that the brains and genius of men of other nations have gone a long way toward the same goal — so that it is merely a matter of time until all nations know how to make and use this new weapon. That is the history of all man's discoveries.

And if, the knowledge of what the Atom Bomb can do disturbs us so deeply in our humble little day, we are supposed to hold its secret exclusively, imagine how the whole world will feel when its manufacture is a common procedure.

Certainly this is calculated to keep Americans feeling humble today, and certainly it is calculated to make men of all nations work more nearly in unison for the future peace.

Kids See Hopes for Bubble Gum Fading

Winchester, Va., June 3 — (UP) — Every kid in Winchester dreamed of ten bucks worth of bubblegum and candy today. They had heard the courts would see things their way.

They figured that was the way a kindly old ex-street huckster wanted it when he died and left a $1,000,000 estate in trust for the school kids to spend the way they want to.

Mrs. Harriett H. Taylor didn't see it that way. She filed suit yesterday to break the will of her cousin, the late Charles B. Henry, claiming it is invalid.

Henry died recently at the age of 80. In the years before he piled up his fortune, he peddled gum and candy on the streets. He came to love the school kids and spent their pennies and nickels at his stand.

So when he wrote his will, Henry decided to give the money back to the kids. He set it up for them in a $1,000,000 trust fund.

He fixed it so every school child in Winchester would get a $5 check on Christmas and another one on Easter. The only restriction was that they be allowed to spend the money any way they wanted to.

Yesterday Mrs. Taylor charged in her suit that her cousin didn't set up the trust fund properly to qualify as a charitable fund under the law. She contended that the will violated a statute against the disposition of such funds, and she asked the court to declare that Henry died intestate — without a legal will.

So today it was up to the courts. The kids hoped the judge would send their dreams a-glimmering.

Air Secretary Denies Report to Congress

Washington, June 3 — (AP) — Air Secretary Symington flatly denied today reports relayed to the house by Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa) in criticism of the P-36 bomber buying program. He said of one phase of the congressman's speech:

"The report is a lie."

Last week Van Zandt told the floor of cancellation of contracts for other types of planes to provide money for more of the huge six-engine consolidated bombers.

He laid stress on the former connection of Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson with consolidated. And he said he had heard "from sources I cannot disregard" that Symington will resign from the cabinet to head a big aircraft combine to be set up by Floyd Odlum, head of the Atlas corporation, which controls consolidated.

Today Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house armed services committee released a letter from Symington taking up the Van Zandt speech.

McMath Talks of Security to Highway Workers

Washington, June 3 — (AP) — Governor McMath of Arkansas thinks southern states should give their highway employees more security and better pay.

He said so yesterday at a regional meeting of the president's highway safety conference. Lack of adequate compensation and job security is one reason the south has lagged behind rest of the nation in highway safety, McMath declared, adding:

"We must foster a career service in our government agencies dealing with highway safety. We must pay adequate salaries. Control of highway traffic is no job for amateurs."

'Discrimination' Ruling to Be Made By Lemley

Little Rock, June 3 — (AP) — Attorneys today began preparing briefs in the "race discrimination" suit against the DeWitt school district, trial of the suit ended in federal court here yesterday.

Judge Harry J. Lemley asked for briefs and indicated he would rule in the case before July 28, when the district's budget is to be published.

Negro plaintiffs seek to end alleged discrimination against Negro pupils and to have their education of these white pupils.

Two other similar suits are pending in Arkansas, but have not been tried.

'Glamazon' Seeks Annulment, Saying She Was Drunk

Ventura, Calif., June 3 — (AP) — Dorothy Ford, six-foot three-inch "glamazon" of the movies, has obtained annulment of her Las Vegas, Nev., marriage to James Sterling on the grounds that both were drunk at the time.

Her superior court suit said the two never lived together after the April 25 rites and that Miss Ford did not know she was a bride until two days after the ceremony.

A. P. Giannini, Biggest U. S. Banker, Dies

San Mateo, Calif., June 3 — (AP) — Amadeo Peter Giannini, boy prodigy peddler who fought his way up to the world's biggest banker died today of a heart ailment. He was 79, and had been ill with a cold for a month.

The veteran of a thousand feuds, the founder of the vast Bank of America once told interviewers "chucks, I'm just a poughneck. I left school and went to work when I was 12. Why, I was brought up on the waterfront."

But he fought on the side of the solid little people of the expanding West Coast. And by 1946, his bank of America was the world's biggest, with assets topping $5,763,000,000. It had grown to 500 branches, most of them in California.

The banking chain was started, he had explained, because he "got so damn mad" at directors of the little bank in which he first was active. They didn't favor some of his go-getter policies, so he started a bank of his own. It was the Bank of Italy, established Oct. 17, 1904.

"They used to say I was undisciplined," he recalled. "Old man," he said, "I want something, you may as well go after it."

It was a policy he had followed since he launched his business career as a boy peddler — in the produce business with his stepfather.

The big, solid, heavy-voiced son of Italian immigrants wasn't all business, however. He always said his "best bargain" was Colorina Cuneo. He married her when he was 22, in 1892. She died in 1941.

Giannini built his tremendous banking empire on a policy of serving the needs of "the little fellow."

The big bluff, "A. P." as he was called, often told friends he had never been a millionaire "and I never want to be one."

High Officials to Accompany Truman

Little Rock, June 3 — (UP) — The star-studded list of high government officials scheduled to be in the city to accompany President Truman visits this city continued to grow today.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder was the latest to signify he would be on hand when Mr. Truman attends the annual reunion of the 35th division, his World War I outfit.

Snyder, a native Arkansian, indicated he would arrive here the day after the president's scheduled arrival on June 10. The secretary's nephew, Little Rock Attorney Eugene Warren said Snyder would attend the dedication of War Memorial park at which Mr. Truman will give what his aides describe as a "major address."

On Sunday, June 12, the cabinet member will be an honored guest at "John W. Snyder Day" at the College of the Ozarks in Clarksburg.

Dr. Wiley Lin Hurlie, president of the college, said Snyder will speak at the campus chapel on Sunday afternoon. A banquet and reception also have been arranged in his honor.

Snyder wrote Hurlie that he was coming to the college to see for himself the morale of the young men who have heard about the school of pharmacy from Sen. J. William Fulbright and others.

At least one other cabinet member will be here during the president's visit. He is Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson who announced Sunday ago that he would accompany Mr. Truman on the trip from Washington.

In addition to Snyder, two other noted Arkansians will be on hand. They are Leslie Bille of Pigott, the president's adviser and secretary, and the late Senator Frank Pace, Jr. of Little Rock, director of the budget.

Secretary of Defense Johnson will be the sixth cabinet member to visit Arkansas in the past six months. The others were Snyder, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson, Attorney General Tom Clark, Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, and Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug. All except Krug included Little Rock on their itineraries. The interior secretary confined his Arkansas visit to Hot Springs.

Just a Puppy

—NEA Telephoto

Little Shirley Larsen, only two years old, welcomes home the "puppy" her daddy told her about some time ago. C. E. Larsen, a merchant mariner, purchased Duke shortly after the dog was born at the St. Bernard Monastery in Switzerland. From there they went to Genoa, Italy, and later landed in New York. Larsen was transferred to another ship so he requested a friend to bring the dog to Larsen's work when the ship reached San Francisco. For a time the dog was lost, finally showing up in Manila with another friend of Larsen's. Duke finally arrived in San Francisco and ended up in the SPCA pound. About twenty people bid on him at an auction, the lucky buyer turning out to be Mrs. C. E. Larsen, wife of the dog's original owner.

Today Young Men Don't Ask for Opportunity So Much as a Career Insured Against Risk

By HAL BOYLE
New York. — (AP) — Can you find security? How?

Security used to be something that only the old folks dreamed of — and they were right.

Today the young people and the young nations want it. They feel tired even before they are tested in the crucible of effort and the changing years.

They want a guarantee. And there is no guarantee. There are as many patterns in security as there are in plaid suits. And the styles change in both.

Right now the pattern of security in America is changing. Or at least the change in pattern is more clearly visible. For the present generation is markedly different in its goals from any previous generation in America.

The traditional ideal of security in this country has been the security of equal opportunity. The real frontier in America was at the end of the road, and it was a small farm in a big puddle that might never dry up than it is to be a big frog in a little puddle that might evaporate tomorrow. If it is to be a big frog, it must be able to find another puddle.

What makes love and life and jobs and children so wonderful is the knowledge that they won't be with us forever. Or if they do stay, the realization we can't remain with them forever.

There is no real safety in the world at all, and never will be. There is no security in terms of dollars or health and there never will be.

The only security lies in accepting the Lord's challenge — he who put man on earth in a celestial garden, that man could make earth and himself better. Anyone who makes himself better finds his only lasting security — peace of mind. And no one else ever does.

'Home Rule' Rent Brings Various Results

Washington, June 3 — (AP) — In two months since it became law, "home rule" rent control has brought results ranging from minor increases in some places to a few rent boosts of up to 100 per cent.

Under the bill passed March 29, communities could be decontrolled by their local governing bodies — with the state governor's okay — and whole states could be decontrolled by their legislatures.

An Associated Press survey showed today that 10 cities and towns, including Knoxville, Tenn., Amarillo, Tex., and McAlester, Okla., have lifted their own rent controls with the approval of state governors. Only Nebraska has thus far voted statewide decontrol.

The bill also gave the federal government power to regulate controls where it had lifted them — power which prompted housing Expediter Tighe Woods to decontrol more than 100 areas.

Landlord reaction to community, state and federal decontrol has varied greatly. Some areas reported practically no boosts. But in Americus, Ga., decontrolled from Washington, rents rose so sharply that the town is being recontrolled today.

In Nebraska, with statewide decontrol, the leading real estate figure has announced 10 per cent increases and has asked his fellow landlords to show similar "restraint" — lest they hurt the cause of decontrol.

In Amarillo, which decontrolled itself, the Globe-News says rent boosts generally have been "a conservative 20 to 25 per cent" but adds that some rents were doubled.

In McAlester these among other early increases were noted: A house went from $35 to $50 a month; an apartment house went up $5 a room; a rooming house with good food and utilities through the work of the these institutions men have been trained to help their families because they have left many times because of lack of other forms of help. The man has helped to bring the man to the low estate to which he has drifted. Nearly fifty homes and hospitals are operated to care for unmarried mothers and assist them in their problem of life. So they operate in the United States 8 general hospitals which care for the sick, these hospitals are equipped for major operations and are staffed by some of the finest doctors in the nation. Most of whom volunteer their services to help these people in distress, who come to the Salvation Army hospitals.

Many homes and nurseries are operated for the care of children as well as a great many youth centers and day camps. Children for boys and girls are carried on by the Salvation Army in connection with their character building activities.

Mr. Moss told the club members of a very little known service organization on which is the Missing Friends Bureau which through the cooperation of the police authorities and their many institutions throughout the nearly 100 countries and colonies in which they operate, they locate many missing people each year. During the war a great many families were re-united that had been separated by the war, and this service is continuing especially in the countries where the present rent is inequitable.

The Salvation Army carries on a great work in the prisons conducting religious meetings for the inmates as well as serving as public advisors and acting as first friend to those leaving prison helping them to find employment and assisting in the care of their families while they are serving their sentence.

Mr. Moss spoke briefly on the work of the Service Unit Department of his organization which department he is responsible for in the states of Arkansas and Tennessee through local committees of the work of the Salvation Army is extended to small cities and towns that are unable to maintain a full time work, but through local people who comprise the Service Unit much work is accomplished in the caring for the needy and unfortunate people of the community which other organizations because of regulations cannot meet.

In Hope last year the local committee assisted many people with food, clothing, hospitalization and medicine, lodging and transportation for transient people who became stranded in the city.

The committee in Hope is headed by Guy E. Basye as chairman and Roy Anderson as Treasurer. The Annual Campaign for funds for the Salvation Army will get under way next week according to an announcement made by Mr. Moss.

They've sent Mayer's finger prints to FBI headquarters in Washington, hoping an identification may result.

Rotary Hears Salvation Army Worker

K. E. Moss Field Representative for the The Salvation Army from Memphis spoke to the Hope Rotary club today noon at Barlow Hotel.

Mr. Moss spoke on the National aspect of the organization giving some statistics of the great work done by the Salvation Army Nationally. He stated that there are now more than 1,400 corps and 6,000 officers of the organization who are consecrated men and women who have been trained in one of the four Training Colleges which the organization has in the United States for the training of its officers, these are located Mr. Moss said at New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Atlanta.

These officers assisted by a large number of volunteer people and employed personnel carry on a great chain of religiously operated institutions for the care of unfortunate humanity. These institutions represent nearly 200 hotels and lodging homes for men and women, over 100 Social Service centers where men may find employment and a helping hand to assist them in working their way back to respectability and where they can obtain a job with good wages. Lucas Favors Compromise Labor Bill

Washington, June 3 — (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois came out today for some amendment of the Truman administration's bill for repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

In the first official indication that President Truman's hardpressed forces in the senate are ready to support a compromise in a last minute effort to win votes, Lucas said in an interview:

U.S. Has Hard Time Keeping Employees

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 3 —(AP)—Uncle Sam has a time getting his nieces and nephews to work for him, or keeping them when he gets them. His problem is pointed up all over again in the argument between Senator Hickenlooper, Iowa senator, and David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the atomic energy commission.

The senator, criticizing Lilienthal's management of the AEC, said it had a turnover in workers of about 87 per cent in 1947-48. That means every year 25 per cent of AEC's people stayed in their jobs. But the whole federal government has quite a time getting and holding people, as former President Hoover once more noted in an interview this week with the magazine U. S. News and World Report.

Every year the turnover in federal employees is about 500,000. Since the government has about 2,100,000 employees, this means every year 25 per cent of the federal workers quit and another 50,000 have to be hired to take their places.

Mr. Hoover was chairman of a commission created by congress to study the federal government's get-up and suggest ways of improving it.

It found getting good people to take government jobs isn't easy. Particularly so for the number of workers has increased so much. In 1899, the government employed 900,000 people. By 1945, because of the war, it was employing 3,000,000. This had to be cut down when peace came. But—

Between 1945 and now the government has released or lost 3,000,000 employees and hired 2,000,000 for a total turnover of 5,000,000 employees in three years. Mr. Hoover's commission, anxious to find out what young people think of going to work for the government, sent a questionnaire to 3,448 senior students in 94 colleges.

Only one out of four of the 3,448 answered were interested in a government career. What were the reasons for their lack of interest in working for the government? They went like this:

Fifty-six percent felt that government salaries were lower than they could get in private business; 49 percent thought the government offers less opportunity for promotion; and a large number rated the government worse than private employment on opportunity for personal development, employee prestige, recognition, and incentive to improve their efficiency.

Government work was considered superior to private employment on these grounds: security, opportunity for public service, and employee benefits like retirement, leave, health.

What were the things the 3,448 were looking for? These things, in this order:

Salary; opportunity for promotion; job security; interesting associates and work; opportunity for personal development; opportunity for advancement.

Don't Count Boston Out of Flag Race

New York, June 2 — (UP)—There are too good things to remember about the pennant-defending Boston Braves in this current struggle for the National League lead.

1. They seldom beat themselves. 2. Don't even count them out of a ball game, even if they are far behind.

The Braves make errors some times costly ones and they frequently find their starting pitchers going sour, forcing them to come back regularly in the late innings for their victories.

They again took undisputed command last night with an 8 to 6 victory over the Pirates in Boston winning their third key contest since last Saturday by putting on a big late rally.

Against Brooklyn on Saturday they overcame a 6 to 0 deficit to win, 7 to 6. On Tuesday they roared from behind to trim the Phils 7 to 6 after being 5 to 0 in arrears and last night they won after trailing 5 to 0 again.

The Braves got the feel of things with one run in the third then exploded for six more in the fourth after spotting Pittsburgh five runs in the first two innings. Boston got 16 hits, Connie Ryan getting a bases loaded double in the winning inning. Al Dark and Eddie Stanky got three hits apiece. Ralph Kiner of the losers hit his 12th homer to tie Ted Williams of the Red Sox for the major league lead.

Stan (The Man) Musial knocked the Dodgers out of a first place by blasting two homers and a single for a personal 3 to 3 Cardinals victory in Brooklyn. Musial, batting .500 at Ebbets Field this season, touched off a four run Cardinal rally in the ninth in which relief pitcher Bo Pallen put three men home with walks and each of them scored.

The Giants staged their biggest rally of the season getting seven runs in the seventh to defeat the Cubs, 11 to 5 at New York. The New Yorkers made 15 hits. Willie Marshall setting the pace with a homer triple, and single.

Only one out of four of the 3,448 answered were interested in a government career. What were the reasons for their lack of interest in working for the government? They went like this:

Fifty-six percent felt that government salaries were lower than they could get in private business; 49 percent thought the government offers less opportunity for promotion; and a large number rated the government worse than private employment on opportunity for personal development, employee prestige, recognition, and incentive to improve their efficiency.

Government work was considered superior to private employment on these grounds: security, opportunity for public service, and employee benefits like retirement, leave, health.

What were the things the 3,448 were looking for? These things, in this order:

Salary; opportunity for promotion; job security; interesting associates and work; opportunity for personal development; opportunity for advancement.

Struggle Between Democracy and Communism Is Far From Over—Bitter Fight Will Come

By DEWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This column expressed the view yesterday that the dangers of world war have receded greatly in recent months, but pointed out that this doesn't mean the struggle between democracy and communism is drawing to a close.

Far from it: The fight will continue along ideological lines indefinitely. Support for the thesis of a protracted and bitter battle of ideas comes from General Louis D. Clay, who, as former U. S. military governor in Germany, has been in one of the hottest spots of the conflict.

The general, speaking at Columbia university in New York, declared that "the remains ahead of us for years to come a struggle between those who promise equal economic return and security that cannot be provided to the person without surrendering individual rights and life under control of the state, and those who believe in democracy, which should provide for equal opportunity, social advance and social progress."

So far as Germany is concerned the ideological struggle will continue to be fierce because of that country's strategic position in central Europe. This of course will be nothing new for the Germans, because the Reich was one of the first nations in which the Soviet Comintern launched a Red offensive.

How many of these folks are Communists is a matter of speculation. Only a tiny percentage of Russia's inhabitants belong to the party.

Hitler's rise to power later was due in no small degree to his fight against communism, despite the fact that he finally signed with Russia the non-aggression pact which made it possible for him to launch his war of aggression in '39.

The sensational fire which destroyed the German Reichstag in 1933 was laid at the door of a Dutch Communist, Marinus Van Der Lubbe. He was found guilty by the supreme court and beheaded, although foreign observers thought the Nazis set the fire themselves for propaganda purposes. Hitler drove the Communists underground, but they still kept up their operations. When I was in Germany just before the war the Reds were spreading their message by printed matter which was shoved under office doors during the hours of darkness by an army of secret workers. Since those days the Communist world revolution has struck in many countries, with particular attention to the United States as leader of the democracies. There is no Communist government which has the support of all the people whom it rules. However, counting the Soviet Union and its satellite countries, Moscow probably has control of more than 300,000,000 people.

However, the revolutionary ideology is communism, which works by strong-arm methods. Moreover it is out to destroy all other ideologies—a powerful challenge to democratic governments and one which can be met only by concrete and constructive ideals.

Red Editor Jailed for Contempt

New York, June 3 —(AP)—A Communist conspiracy trial defendant was found in contempt of court today and ordered held in jail 30 days unless he purges himself of contempt.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina ordered John W. Gates jailed after the 35-year-old editor of the Communist Daily Worker had refused to say who helped him prepare a Communist party publication.

The action immediately brought the other 10 defendants to their feet in protest.

The judge then promptly ordered two of them, Henry Winston and Gus Hall, also held in jail. All defendants have been free under $5,000 bail previously.

The party leaders on trial claim that the government has no right to question them about their comrades.

In the confusion after Medina had ordered Gates jailed, Winston, a Negro, was heard to shout a remark which included the word "lynching."

The judge said to him: "I direct that you be remanded." Then Hall cried he had seen "fairer justice" in police courts.

"Let's see," said Medina, peering through his glasses. "That's Mr. Hall. You are remanded for the balance of the trial."

To remand means to revoke bail and require a defendant to remain in a cell overnight when the trial is going on.

Winston is organizational secretary of the Communist party. Hall is its Ohio state chairman.

U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGhee asked Gates who had helped him prepare a publication under auspices of the party veterans committee which Gates once headed.

Gates refused to answer, claiming the right of silence.

THE REAL THING—A group of Berlin youngsters munch on the first oranges they've had in over a year. With the lifting of the Russian blockade, fresh fruits and vegetables are again rolling into the needy city.

Piechota had a no-hitter until the sixth, when Earl Wooden singled. Hal Quick, Nashville shortstop, clouted a double with two mates on base in the eighth to give the Vols their victory.

Ralph Brown's double scoring two tallies and Lloyd Gearhart's two-run homer in the fourth led Atlanta over the Pels.

Birmingham's Barons grabbed a five run lead in the first inning, and coasted in.

Southern President Charlie Hurth announced he had suspended and fined two Chattanooga players for delaying a game at Little Rock by a protracted argument with an umpire Wednesday night. Bobo Newsum was suspended for five days and fined $50, and Manager George Myatt was suspended for three days and fined $25.

trols the country's police, and announced the seizure of the arm and ammunition on the outskirts of Paris last night. The arrests were carried out in connection with the capture.

The seizure resulted from the questioning of a man yesterday in connection with the government's inquiry into the attempts to demoralize the army, an interior ministry spokesman said.

The spokesman said the ammunition, sub-machine guns, rifles, and pistols came from Perigueux, a southern France. The buses were intercepted at the south edge of Paris.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE
By Hugh Lawrence Nelson
COPYRIGHT BY HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON DISTRIBUTED BY NEB SERVICE, INC.

The Story: First, the murder of Lily Warren and next a first turn the "New Eden" of Henry Gough Harding on Spear Island into anything but a paradise. Bea Cosgrove, one of the islanders, already is a candidate for the title of "murderess" is a murderer. The islanders fight the fire but an explosion blasts the house and store rooms as the fire is in progress.

The fires were out and with the rain had come a chill. The soft weave of the women's clothing soaked up moisture, clinging to their bodies with a water layer which brought a purple feeling to their skin. The thin cotton of the men's clothing was no more protection.

There was the smell of wet bodies, the odor of scorched cloth and flesh, and the all-prevailing smell of water on ashes. They were bunched together in the lee of the rock ridge. Huddled together for warmth, joined by their shared misery.

Bea Cosgrove felt Mabel Jones on her right, Mollie Stark on her left. The back was wetted by a portion of Harding's shoulder and a portion of Fred Silwell's. She could hear or sense the small individual movements which identified the others. George Bascombe's restlessness, the playing with his heavy-rimmed glasses, Nona McGuire who sighed, and whose teeth chattered. Agnes Firth who spent her time doubling up and straightening her legs.

Toward morning the wind dropped from gale force. The rain was no longer driven in horizontal streaks. It searched out their hiding place. The shivering of the group became a community convulsion. They waited out the long night.

Gradually the ground beneath them turned to mud. The light which showed gray skies to them at first reached down. They could see each other.

They were smoke smudged. Their wet clothes were scorched and torn. Their hair and eyebrows were singed. Yet with the light they all made the effort to pull their clothes and themselves together.

Movement broke up the unit. Slowly, each motion a new pain, they got to their feet. They stared at desolation.

"It's light," Mabel Jones said. "It's time to see what is left."

"It comes to this, George Bascombe said harshly. "It always comes back to this!"

Nona put her hand on his arm. "George, please."

He hung her hand away viciously. She staggered and slipped in the mud and would have fallen if Bea had not caught her.

Colbert, MacMurray Do It Again in Saenger Feature Sunday, 'Family Honeymoon'

Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray have done it again. Teamed for the seventh time in their careers, the memorable duo of "The Egg and I" come through with another record-breaking success in "Family Honeymoon." The new comedy, an old-time movie laugh champion if there ever was one, opens at the Saenger theatre Sunday. It is presented by Universal International.

The basic idea of this hilarious screenplay is simple. Miss Colbert, seen as a college-town widow with three children, marries MacMurray, who portrays a botany and horticulture professor. On the day of their wedding, the spinster baby sitter who was to have custody of the children during the honeymoon breaks her leg. No honeymoon wants to take care of the little jumps so the newweds have to take them along to Grand Canyon on a family honeymoon which, as MacMurray observes rather dryly, "is better than no honeymoon at all."

A honeymoon with a personnel of five is bound to be full of fireworks and in this case they start exploding at the film's outset, when the two small boys desert the train and are the object of a hectic cross-country pursuit which winds up with the honeymooning couple sharing the beds and board of a farm couple who have six children of their own.

Stephater MacMurray finally blows up at the intolerable antics of his newly-acquired brood and gives one of the kids an old-fashioned spanking. The mistake leads to a general misunderstanding with his bride, who thinks he is philandering with an old sweetheart and that his disciplining of the children is on a cover-up. Out of this seemingly hopeless tangle emerges a climax which will always be remembered as the most comical happy ending ever contrived for a motion picture.

Much of the film is backgrounded by the Grand Canyon, which is beautifully photographed. But first and last, the picture is a consistent, heartwarming, rollicking series of chuckles, guffaws and plain old belly laughs. It's entertainment for the whole family.

John Beck and Z. Wayne Griffin co-produced from a screenplay by Dane Lussey, based on the novel by Homer Crook. Claude Binyon directed, William Daniels photographed and the featured cast includes Rita Johnson, Hattie McDaniels, and others.

The three clever children in the cast are Gail Perreau, sensation of "Enchantment," Peter Miles and Jimmy Hunt.

More U. S. Airmen to Be Sent to England

London, June 3 —(AP)—Maj. Gen. Leon W. Johnson told a group of former U. S. war correspondents today the number of American airmen in Britain soon will be raised to 12,000.

Johnson is commander of the third air division, which has headquarters here.

About 8,000 airmen already are stationed in the United Kingdom, including personnel of three B-29 groups and a big maintenance field at Burtonwood.

Johnson's disclosure that the number will be increased 50 per cent was made in a speech to 37 ex-war reporters who arrived by plane from America today for a peacekeeping trip to the Normandy invasion beaches.

They will revisit the beaches Monday, the fifth anniversary of D-Day.

Royal Air Force Marshal Lord Tedder welcomed the correspondents to a field reception and said "it is good to see them all again and remind ourselves of certain operations in the past."

Johnson said in his address that cooperation between the U. S. and

Filipino Has Own Way to Win Girl

Manila, June 3 —(AP)—Officials theorized today that a Filipino lover chose his rival by hiring three men to blow up a plane. The craft vanished May 7 with 13 persons aboard. Two of the passengers were Americans.

A dispatch from Daei, takeoff point on the ill-starred flight, said an ex-convict and a youth with a police record had admitted planting a time bomb aboard the Philippines air line plane.

National bureau of investigation agents said they believe a Filipino hired the two and a third man still at large to blow up the plane. They said the plane carried the husband of the woman he loved. The agents said the evidence had been turned over to the prosecutor at Daei. No formal complaints had been filed.

This is the story the agents told: The two Filipinos said they were paid $92.50 by the lover to get the bomb aboard the plane the box was to explode on takeoff.

The escaped convict took a box to the air line office and had it weighed and tagged. On the way to the airport, the second Filipino switched the tags to another box. This box was placed aboard the plane.

Agents said the bomb was set to go off 30 minutes after the twin-engine Douglas plane took off. The plane left Daei, 140 miles east of Manila, in perfect weather. A short time later all contact with it was lost.

Air line officials in Manila were puzzled. They said the plane was in good trim and was manned by experienced pilots. They suspected kidnappers might have had a hand in the disappearance.

Three days later, fishermen near Alabat island, 70 miles east of Manila, reported they had seen an explosion in the air on May 7. On May 13, the pilot's body and wreckage washed ashore. The wreckage showed unmistakable signs of an explosion.

Police immediately went looking for a man who put a 45-pound box, supposedly containing fish, aboard the plane at Daei.

There were nine passengers and a Filipino crew of four aboard. Among the passengers, besides the Americans, were two White Russian refugees from China. The Americans were Ludwig J. Sundeen, 48, Litchfield, Minn., and Robert Parker, 27, Rochester, N.Y.

A 47-year-old grandmother said today that drug treatments ordered by a court were curing her of an "urge to gamble" that nearly wrecked her life.

Psychiatrists said that Mrs. Sula Belle Stimson acted under a "compulsive, almost hypnotic urge" when she began gambling last fall after living all her life as a good, morally upright citizen.

She had been happily married 20 years and was the mother of seven children when she suddenly began gambling. She plunged all her money at Gardena, Cal., poker parlors and then cashed bad checks to gamble some more.

She was arrested twice for the bad checks. The first time, Superior Judge Fred Miller let her go with a 30-day sentence because of her good record. When she was arrested again, he ordered a medical examination that disclosed her "urge" to gamble.

Dr. Albert Marinacci, county hospital physician, and Dr. Marcus Crahan, county jail doctor, said they believed a comparatively new drug, glutamic acid, might help. Miller ordered her treated.

"I feel much better mentally already," Mrs. Stimson said today. "I want to be released so I can show people how much I have improved."

Crahan, however, said Mrs. Stimson probably would need two months more treatment and even then the cure might not be permanent.

Marinacci said her "urge" began when some of her brain cells stopped functioning normally. She changed completely from a woman of high moral and ethical standards to one with complete disregard for responsibility.

"She is compelled to gamble with full knowledge of the consequences of her actions," he added.

British air force "was never better," he added.

Johnson said in his address that cooperation between the U. S. and

Fred Silwell did not move. "It's your place, George," he wet his lips. "There are witnesses."

DOROTHY DIX Best Age for Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going with a man for two years and now have become engaged. Will you please tell us what chances of happiness a couple of 35 have if they get married?

AN ENGAGED COUPLE
Answer: Well, I should say that if there is one period in life more auspicious than any other in which to enter into matrimony it is between 28 and 35. From my many years of observation I have come to the conclusion that the chief reason that marriage is so often a failure is because boys and girls get married before they are ready for it.

Marriage is bound to be a gamble, no matter at what age we marry, but youth takes a greater risk in it because they have no idea of what kind of life partners they want. Their tastes are not so fixed and they do not even know what they will develop into themselves.

Boys and girls are not ready for matrimony because they have not had their playtime. They do not want to settle down and assume the responsibilities of marriage. Nor is the average young couple ready financially to marry. Very few boys make enough money to support a family, and there is mighty little love strong enough to stand the test of shabbiness and sordid living and anxiety about where the money is coming from to pay the rent and the groceries.

Habits Formed
All of these pitfalls the two avoid who marry around the thirties. Their tastes and habits are formed. They know what qualities they desire in the one with whom they are to spend the balance of their lives, and their knowledge of the world and people makes them capable of judging the character and disposition

Viewers Are Astounded By New Bendix

Arkansas Retailers representing Bendix Home Appliances who a few days ago for the first time saw the sensational new Economat automatic washing machine at a special dealer demonstration given in Little Rock will open public showing in their stores Monday, June 6.

Simultaneously, the 7,500 Bendix dealers in 79 distributing areas throughout the country will make their opening public presentations. The increasing production schedule has assured early delivery to households.

The Economat, product of two years of experiment and development and which required an expenditure of $2,500,000 is an agitator machine with a revolutionary washing and squeeze-drying system using a Metolox composition "Wondertub," more resistant to abrasives than are steel and aluminum and guaranteed for five years.

Bendix engineers declare at their South Bend, Indiana headquarters, that the Economat is "The washer that couldn't happen" and Judson S. Sayre, President of Bendix, says the retail price, $179.95 sets the retail price, $179.95 as a "price that you won't believe."

STATE CONGRESSMEN

Washington, June 3 —(AP)—Rep. Norrell has announced that, barring complications, all members of the Arkansas congressional delegation will fly to Little Rock when President Truman visits there next week.

Old Crops

Wheat, barley, rice, dates, figs, olives, apples, grapes, flax and hemp all have been cultivated for at least 4000 years according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

but with helplessness to desist," Crahan said. "She is not a criminal in the moral sense of the definition."

Her husband, James L. Stimson, an oil field mechanic, estimated that she lost between $4,000 and $5,000 at Gardena poker tables.

of a man or woman they select as a mate. Then, by the time a man is 30 or 35 he has got on his feet and is able to provide for his home. Also, by the time a man and woman are 30 they have had their fling and are ready to settle down and be fireside companions.

Above all, the mature man and woman have had enough experience of life to be able to make adjustments of matrimony better than any boy and girl can. They have learned self-control, acquired tact and patience. We talk about the adaptability of youth. Now, sense, it takes age to teach us how to give and take.

For these and many other reasons I think that around the thirties is the ideal age for marriage.

Dear Miss Dix: Would you take a chance on marrying a man who tells you frankly that his mother will always be first with him and that no girl can ever take her place in his affections? Although I love him dearly, I would rather give him up now than marry him and play second fiddle to his mother.

UNDECIDED
Answer: I think any other man in the world makes a better husband than the one with a mother's affection. I think there is more chance of a wife winning out against any other rival than a mother.

There are men who remain Mother's little darlings as long as they live. They run to Mother for advice and sympathy. They go to her with all of their troubles. They always think that their wives how incompetent she may be or should let Mother run her houses and rear their children no matter how behind the times. They are forever throwing Mother in their wives' teeth and there's nothing that gets more on a woman's nerves than to have to be forever listening to what "Mother says."

So I think you would be very sensible if you would let your young man stay married to his mother, while you look about for some real man without a mother complex who will be willing to be all-in-all to you as you are to him.

Dear Miss Dix: I am married to a widower and I would be very happy except that my husband's family are continually talking about his first wife. They are very good to me, but this harping on Wife No. 1 gets me down. What is your advice?

HELEN B.
Answer: It is natural that the family should talk about his first wife and it just shows that they accept you as one of themselves and have no animosity toward you. If you will just take this view of the subject, you will find that you can literally laugh it off and not wreck your life by making a mountain out of a molehill.

Fair Enough

Every state in this union and Hawaii and Alaska have laws against rioting, tumult, unlawful assembly and other legal variations and degrees of the criminal commotions which have been the C.I.O.'s method of waging controversy. As often as not, the victims of these laws have been workers who refused to join unions or defied cordons of thugs, commonly called goons, who tried to prevent them from going to their work. It is apparent that the C.I.O. intends to resume soon its old, criminal "militancy" in strikes and drives to round up new members, or subverts, particularly in the southern states.

In many places, especially in Michigan, the local police, the sheriffs and the state police more often than not have refused to do their duty. In some cases the trouble was a lack of the courage requisite for the job of peace officer. In others, however, the guilty men were following a "policy" of avoiding bloodshed by placating men who threatened to shed the blood of others if they were resisted in their criminal acts.

The "policy" which has been the excuse offered by the state police of Michigan was laid down by Frank Murphy, now of the Supreme Court, when he was governor and a New Deal supporter. It matters not whether Murphy was yellow or earnestly believed that his "policy" was superior to the written laws adopted by the people long before he was elected.

Michigan, whose laws are but typical of the laws everywhere, the statute which is supposed to be superior to the "policy" or fear of any governor, state cop or sheriff, plainly says that it shall be a misdemeanor to interfere with or molest in any way any person in the quiet and peaceful pursuit of his lawful occupation. Moreover, any person who aids or abets such conduct shall be guilty, too.

Mass picketing and the use of force or threats to intimidate people, and of the use of the doorways of factories, roads and railroads, are unlawful in Michigan but are not expressly forbidden in certain other states. However, in certain other states, laws against disorderly conduct, assault and rioting cover the same ground in general terms.

With variations in phrasing, the laws everywhere require mayors, aldermen or other equivalent, sheriffs and city and state police to "go among the persons unlawfully, riotously or tumultuously assembled and, in the name of the people of the state, command them immediately to disperse."

If the rioters do not, then disperse, the public officer listed must call upon all law-abiding persons there present to help arrest members of the riotous assembly.

For the guidance of these officials, the law defines an unlawful assembly as twelve or more persons armed with clubs—the favorite weapon of the C. I. O. goons—or other weapons. A crowd of 3 or more unarmed persons engaged in tumult is also a crime.

Any mayor, alderman or the equivalent, sheriff or deputy who neglects to do his utmost to suppress a riot and arrest the rioters is subject to a fine of $25 and six months in jail.

The C. I. O.'s criminal practice of "wrecking" and automobiles and throwing bricks through windows is forbidden in all states, and damage to the dwellings of employers of non-striking or strike-breaking workers is thoroughly covered by law.

However, these laws seldom are enforced in C. I. O. riots, on the contrary, they are a sword which is used to threaten state police men ignored criminal acts done in their presence, whether because they were yellow or not, can only draw conclusions. In such cases they are all the protection the law-abiding citizen has.

The present federal laws forbid the protection of strikebreakers from another state in certain kinds of "labor" disputes which are Communist insurrections. They do not, however, forbid the interstate transportation of armies or battalions of organized and disciplined goons for the purpose of terrorizing communities by arson, assault, vandalism and other forms of anarchy. Some bodies of goons may be actually Communist forces of insurrection.

Decades ago, American believe that they have a "vested" right, a property right in their jobs, which protects those jobs from usurpation when they strike. In that belief, some labor leaders have considered that they were or defending their personal property in striking and beating citizens attempting to go to work. If their jobs were property, they could be sold, and in time, capitalists among the workers or labor leaders or the employing corporations themselves would acquire title to most of the jobs in the United States, and rent them out to workers for so much a day.

The next year probably will bring the great showdown between government and mobs, particularly in the southern states which have been chosen for a repetition of the great anarchy of the so-called "organizing strikes" of the thirties. If the C. I. O. attempts the same terror in the south that swept Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania there will be loss of life. The citizens have a right to shoot to kill if they find themselves attacked and the police refuse to do their sworn duty.

On one tightrope crossing of Niagara Falls, Blondin, French acrobat, sat down midway to make and eat a meal according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Four Events Scheduled in Trap Meet

Stuttgart, June 3 — (AP) — Four Southwest open events were scheduled today in the second of four days of competitive trap shooting here.

Senior male contenders fire at 200 targets from the 16-yard line in one event. The lady and junior winners were to be determined on 100 shots.

Julius Petty of Stuttgart, seven times Arkansas champion, won the rice belt handicap with 98 of 100 targets from a 24-yard handicap yesterday.

In the introductory shoot Maurice Felus of Natchez, Miss., and Herb Longden of Taylorsville, Ill., tied with perfect scores of 100.

The two decided to let the handicapped serve as the shoot-off. This was the only one of its kind.

Arkansas titles will be at stake tomorrow. The Southwest zone handicap will be Sunday.

Same Faces Make Up State Match Play

Texarkana, June 3 — (AP) — For the most part the same old faces of the championship flight as match play began in the Arkansas amateur golf tournament at the Texarkana country club today.

But the perennial top contenders were riding in the back seat behind a Magnolia darkhorse, Charles Woodward, as they teed off for their first 18-hole tests.

Woodward was the only one able to master par on the tricky course in yesterday's qualifying round and was medalist with his one-under 72.

He'll have to stave off threats from a strong field to hold his position, however.

Four shut-outs who have won state championships before will try to do it again. They are Vincent Allison, who won his home course at Fort Smith last year; more, Sr. Richard (Bubba) Smart, Pine Bluff, a three-time champ, and Johnny Buzick, Jr. Jonesboro.

Nearest to Woodward in qualifying was Bill Clark of Texarkana with a par 73.

Allison, who qualified automatically as defending titlist and did not have to post a score, shot a 74 yesterday while competing in the companion Arkansas open tournament.

First-round losers will drop into the first flight.

The finals will be played Sunday afternoon.

The pairings:

Vincent Allison, Fort Smith, (74) vs. W. McGeehan, Magnolia (77)

J. W. Buzick, Jr. Jonesboro (76) vs. Henry Levy, Little Rock (80)

Albert McWilliams, Texarkana (75) vs. Ted Darragh, Little Rock (79)

Flarety Gets Nod to Start Against Atlanta

By George Dobson

Manager Clyde Zinn has nominated Kenneth Flarety for the starting assignment tonight when the locals take on Atlanta, Texas.

This will be Flarety's first start since he joined the club. He has relieved in three innings as a single and he retired the next 21 batters.

For the season, Flarety's record shows 18 hits, 12 walks, 143 strikeouts and four runs, all unearned, in 72 innings. He also is the best pitcher in the team.

Anybody got a high school star who can beat that?

All Burned Up This dispute probably will have to go to the Supreme Court for a ruling, though it is now being debated in the Boston suburban municipal softball league.

Seems the Somerville, Mass., Firemen's team was to meet Malden at 10 a. m. one day this spring.

At 8:14 a fire alarm was sounded at 8:23 there was another and at 10:45 the multiple alarm sign was flashed.

Naturally the fire ladders didn't show up at the ball field. The umpire waited a half hour, then ordered the game forfeited to Malden.

League officials, on a close vote, upheld the ump, but the fire chief and the mayor of Somerville are protesting the game should get rescheduled.

One Minute Sports Page Lee "Sonny" Mitchell, who was a one-man track team for White Oak high in the Texas schoolboy meet, will enter the national meet, U. N. next fall. He's also rated with a terrific football prospect.

Twin brothers, Bob and Bill Carey, likely will be the regular ends in the Chicago State football team next fall. Bob, the bigger of the pair, is 6-4 3/4 tall and weighs 220.

The Chicago Cubs claim their decrease in home attendance this spring, as compared to last year, is due entirely to the weather.

Manuel Hamm Takes First in Class D at Trap Shoot

J. Manuel Hamm of Hope, surprised by shooting a 90, including 50 straight to the target, placed in Class D, in the Southwest zone Arkansas trap shoot event yesterday in Stuttgart.

Hamm's victory made it 2 of 4 for Arkansians in the four class event.

Texarkanian Wins Golf Honors

Texarkana, June 2 — (AP) — Tall, wiry Don Murphy today held the 1949 Arkansas open golf championship further evidence that familiarity with a tournament course pays off.

His victory yesterday at the Texarkana Country Club, where he is pro, marked the second straight on top in the event at Fort Smith last year.

McGeehan of the Big State League and the major league from the Big State League, last fall and is a former Northwestern Oklahoma state college athlete.

Coach Joe Dildy is organizing a girls pep squad to cheer his Hot Springs high grid team next year—win loss or draw. He had 170 girls at the first meeting.

Texas A. & M. has two new tackle prospects. One T. K. Noland 215-pounder from Austin is expected to enroll next September. The other, who isn't available for a few years, The son of a little light and only ten days old.

Ellis Kinder who's having his best season on the mound for the Boston Red Sox got his start as a sandlotter around Russellville. He hurled for amateur and semiprover Morrilton and Blackwell. He included Scottsville Atkins Do-ver Morrilton and Blackwell. He hit the headlines with Memphis of the Southern Association and then went to the St. Louis Browns who traded him to the Boston last year.

Barons Knocked Out of Lead in Southern

By The Associated Press Two run homers by Bill Antonello and George Shuba gave Manag a 5-4 edge over Birmingham and knocked the Barons out of the Southern Association lead Wednesday night.

Atlanta whipped the Pelicans of New Orleans 5 to 4 and moved back into the top spot.

Still another game ended 5 and 4 as the Lookouts of Chattanooga triumphed over the Little Rock Travelers.

New Orleans was ahead 4 to 3, going into the ninth. Al Blair batted a hard grounder at Pel Manager Hugh Luby for a possible double play. But the ball went between Luby's legs, bringing in Rusty Morgan and putting Lloyd Gearhart on third. Then Gearhart scored the winning tally.

Two Lookouts were banished from the game at Little Rock. They were George Myatt, manager, and Pitcher Bobo Newsum. The argument started when a balk was called on relief Pitcher Woody Johnson.

Newsum started for Chattanooga and was named the winner, although replaced in the sixth inning. He had replaced his uniform with street clothes when he joined the argument.

Tonight's games: Chattanooga at Little Rock, New Orleans at Atlanta, Mobile at Birmingham, Nashville at Memphis.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

Natchez Goes Past Cards for Second

By the Associated Press

Natchez and Greenville moved further into the thick of the Cot States league pennant fight Thursday night as other leaders faltered against lowly foes.

The Indians of Natchez nipped Helena, 6 to 5, while Greenville was shut out by Hot Springs, 9-0, and Pine Bluff was blanked by celtarite Clarksdale, 2-0.

As a result, Natchez shoved past Pine Bluff to second place by five percentage points. Both are one and a half games behind the leading Dodgers.

In the other game, the fourth-place Greenville Bucks cut the difference between themselves and first place to three and a half games by walloping El Dorado, 13 to 3.

George Ruzina, with four safeties in five trips to the plate, paced Natchez' 13-hit attack at Helena. Fernando Solis had a perfect night for the Seaporters, socking a home run and three singles in his four trips.

At Hot Springs, Don Schumacher hit the Dodgers to four scattered hits and struck out ten batters. The Bathers pounded two Greenville hurlers for 11 blows and were helped by five errors.

Cotton Hill outpitched Eddie Albright in a duel of stars at Pine Bluff. He yielded six hits. Albright gave up nine safeties but added ten strikeouts to his league-leading total.

Greenville scored its winning margin in ten runs in the first inning of its vicious home game with El Dorado's Oilers. El Dorado second baseman Ford Taylor was ejected from the park for striking the Bucks' Nick De Luca with his fist, and a free-for-all was narrowly averted as players of both teams rushed to the scene. De Luca, whose shoulder was knocked out, forced Taylor to drop the ball.

Friday night's games: Greenville at Hot Springs (2), El Dorado at Greenville, Clarksdale at Pine Bluff, Natchez at Helena.

Badly Burned, Youth Given Chance to Live

Vernon, Tex., June 2 —(AP)—Don Woodard, 22, was given a chance to live after being badly burned at his home last night and they loved him for it. It meant he might have won a fight for life.

Last night was extremely critical for the ten-year-old farm boy, who burned over 70 per cent of his body. It was the last phase of a period doctors said could be a turning point in his grim, 22-day battle to survive third-degree burns.

He's just as fine as could possibly be expected, said a hospital attendant shortly before midnight. He's tussling at his nurses' and that's a good indication he's feeling pretty good.

At one period yesterday Donnie was so badly burned that a blood transfusion snapped him out of the sinking spell and he seemed to improve.

He's taking nourishment—and is doing him some good, an attendant said. "This doesn't mean he's entirely well, or that he is out of danger. But it is very encouraging."

Hundreds of persons have contributed to a fund to pay Donnie's hospital bills. And one, Mrs. Margaret Hutchinson of Texarkana, has promised him a pony. That's Donnie's big reason to live.

Here and There in Arkansas

Blytheville, June 2 —(P)—Testimony continued here today in the trial of Leon Ogles, 28, of Marmarock, Ark., on a charge of first degree murder.

A jury completed yesterday was qualified to inflict the death penalty.

Ogles is accused in the fatal shooting of Night Marshal Tom Reardon at Reardon, Ark., last June 1. Ogles' brother, Darrell, was sentenced to life imprisonment in connection with the slaying.

The state charges Green was shot with his own pistol while attempting to arrest Ogles on a charge of drunkenness.

The trial was transferred to Blytheville on a change of venue.

North Little Rock, June 2 —(P)—A safe at Warden's Service Station here was looted of $1,092 early today.

Less than 30 minutes later the money was recovered and two men were jailed for questioning.

Defectives Jones and Gubert reported that from a distance of about 200 feet they watched the two men, identified as Dan West and Carl E. Wiggins, run from the station. Other officers were summoned by radio and assisted in nabbing the two fleeing men.

Little Rock, June 2 —(P)—Testimony continued here today that there is no need for a Negro high school in the DeWitt school district was offered in federal court here today.

Supt. R. H. Brotherton was the first defense witness as the second day of trial began in a suit alleging the district is violating the 14th amendment to the U. S. constitution by not providing Negro educational facilities equal to those for whites.

He testified that the average attendance at the DeWitt key school for Negroes averaged from only one pupil in the third grade to 25 in the first this year.

The district has been transporting Negro pupils to Immanuel high school in a nearby district. A picture of the bus used for this transportation, a former ambulance, was offered as an exhibit by the plaintiffs to bolster their claims that transportation to Immanuel is inadequate.

Brotherton told the court the bus is the same one used for transporting white pupils and added that even a pickup truck was used to carry whites to school.

Under cross examination Brotherton said the DeWitt district is considering a building program but has a bonded debt of $100,000, has no cash reserve and is forced to borrow money month to month. The DeWitt case is the first of three suits filed in the state alleging inferior educational facilities for Negroes to come to trial. The other suits are against the Fort Smith school system and the Conway county (Morrilton) board of education.

Conway, June 1 (P). —Dr. John Clifford Williams, president of the former Galloway college in Searcy, died today at his home here. He was 75.

Dr. Williams had recently returned from Michigan, where he was recuperating from an illness. He suffered a heart seizure today after returning from a shopping trip.

The educator was born in Strong, Miss. He was graduated from Webb school in Bell Buckle, Tenn., in 1884 and in 1898 was graduated from Vanderbilt University in Nashville.

Dr. Williams first came to Arkansas as principal of the former Clary Training Institute in Forgyce. He later became instructor in English and Latin at the former Henderson-Brown college in Arkadelphia.

He was appointed to the presidency of Galloway, a former girls' school, in 1907 and headed the institution until 1932, when it was consolidated with Hendrix College.

Little Rock June 1 (P). — The State Highway Department will use convict labor in construction work on a road near Tucker farm. Director J. C. Baker said today.

He said between 15 and 18 white prisoners would work on the job on Highway 15 from England to the junction of Highway 79. The prison farm is about 12 miles from England.

The convicts will be transported daily to the job.

The director said that use of the convicts would be limited to this one project.

The job will be an experimental one employing a new machine recently purchased by the department. The machine mixes soil and concrete which can be spread for a comparatively inexpensive road base.
